COVID-19 and the destruction of housing, health care facilities and basic infrastructure. You can help by donating to support countries such as Syria and Yemen, the violence and instability in Palestine and Iraq and the deteriorating situation in Libya and Lebanon.

Human settlements including the provision of affordable, accessible, and adequate housing and improving human settlements and the services provided to all people. The goal is high-quality, sustainable urbanization in accordance with the principle of sustainable development.

Around 100,000 residents will be served by boreholes with solar pumps and the installation of modern borehole technology is funded by the European Union. The project is a partnership with Tulsi Chanrai Foundation and the Karu Local Government.

Partners play a big role in promoting sustainable urbanization solutions as highlighted in UN-Habitat's recently published "Homelessness, SDG 1 and Sustainable Recovery from COVID19: Poverty left behind." A report shows how compact, well planned cities which combine residential and commercial functions with public spaces and affordable housing can be a significant source of economic growth and social development.

The European Union is providing support to Burkina Faso for the vulnerability reduction initiative with a focus on assisting the most vulnerable people in the target cities. The project includes construction of about 500 housing units with social services and the development of a gender strategy for territorial planning. The support will help four cities (Dori, Kaya, Kongoussi and Sanmatenga) to increase their economic resilience and improve their living conditions.

UN-Habitat's three-tier governance structure is funded by voluntary contributions from member states for core activities, and asked the Ad-hoc working group on programmatic, operational and financial issues to review the annual work programme and budget for the year 2022.

Contact should be made by a third party in submitting your nomination including the date of submission. The deadline for nominations is 13 July 2021. Nominations should be made by a third party in compliance with the regulations promulgated by the United Nations Convention to Combat Desertification (UNCCD).

The Secretariat of UNCCD is funded by voluntary contributions from member states for core activities, and asked the Ad-hoc working group on programmatic, operational and financial issues to review the annual work programme and budget for the year 2022.

UN-Habitat's Committee of Permanent Representatives (CPR) is the body that decides on the approval of the annual work programme and budget for the year 2022.

UN-Habitat has developed and launched a #ClimateAction4Cities Campaign platform, which can be accessed through the UNFCCC and IPCC processes and strengthen the long-term relationship between GCoM and UN-Habitat.

For potential partnerships, contact the CPR Secretariat or the Account and Budget Secretariat. For potential partnerships, contact the UNFCCC Secretariat or the IPCC Secretariat.

www.unhabitat.org
The outcome of the National Urban Policy Programme, a global partnership launched in 2016 at the Habitat III conference, is reviewed in this report. This report covers 162 countries across the globe. Building on the first edition launched in 2018, the report aims to assess progress and identify challenges in implementing the Programme. It highlights the importance of integrating communities, especially refugees and migrants, and introduces COVID-19 mitigation measures in the community. The report also showcases the provision of urgent support, and sustainable solutions for IDPs to access information on the different determinants to integrate communities.

Inclusive Cities, Solidarity Communities launches web platform

The Inclusive Cities, Solidarity Communities initiative will allow us to build urban solutions based on knowledge, good practices and financing, among decision makers, in the public and private sector and other domestic and international sources. The project promotes inclusive cities and solidarity communities to support refugee and migrant integration, introduce COVID-19 mitigation measures in the community, and support IDPs and host communities.

Support to IDPs and host communities

With the rising need to support IDPs’ living conditions and their daily activities, governments and international organizations, with UN-Habitat’s support, are working to improve the living conditions of IDPs. The project is one of her most saleable products was the hand-sanitizer holder. Several initiatives have been implemented to support IDPs and host communities. One of the projects is providing emergency support to IDPs, and on sustainable solutions for IDPs to access information on the different determinants to integrate communities.

The city collected data on household and non-household waste and completed a Waste Flow Analysis of Multiple Deprivations in Secondary Cities in the Philippines. Cagayan de Oro City in the Philippines first completed a Waste Wise Cities Tool (WaCT) assessment on their own under UN-Habitat’s support. The footballer, who was part of the French team that won the World Cup, has been appointed as Regional Goodwill Ambassador for Africa for UN-Habitat. The footballer, who was part of the French team that won the World Cup, has been appointed as Regional Goodwill Ambassador for Africa for UN-Habitat.

Institute for Transportation and Development Policy

The Instituto de Desarrollo y Transporte (IDT) in Costa Rica and the Institute for Transportation and Development Policy (ITDP) in New York City have announced a partnership to advance sustainable urban mobility in Latin America. The project will focus on improving public transport systems, promoting non-motorized modes of transport, and increasing access to affordable and safe urban transport.

The Adaptation Fund

The Adaptation Fund is a financial mechanism established by the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) to support developing countries in implementing adaptation actions that help them adapt to the impacts of climate change. The Adaptation Fund has provided funding to support climate change adaptation projects in multiple countries, including the Philippines, where it has provided support to improve infrastructure and access to water in areas affected by climate change.

UN-Habitat’s project on “Emergency Support to IDPs” has resulted in the successful implementation of support programmes in several countries, including Afghanistan, where the Afghanistan Urban Safety and Security Program (AUSSP) promotes safe, secure, and inclusive cities. The program has brought women to the forefront of development works in Afghanistan, and in one of her most saleable products was the hand-sanitizer holder.

In Brazil, the Social Territories project developed by Rio de Janeiro’s local government has supported vulnerable communities, including refugees and migrants, to access information on the different determinants to integrate communities. The project has also introduced COVID-19 mitigation measures in the community and supported IDPs and host communities.

In Cuba, the Asociación de Mujeres de Organizaciones de Desarrollo (AMRD) has been working with women to access information on the different determinants to integrate communities. The project has supported vulnerable communities, including refugees and migrants, to access information on the different determinants to integrate communities. The project has also introduced COVID-19 mitigation measures in the community and supported IDPs and host communities.

In Indonesia, the National Program for the Elimination of Slums and Informal Settlements (PEN) has been working with communities to access information on the different determinants to integrate communities. The project has supported vulnerable communities, including refugees and migrants, to access information on the different determinants to integrate communities. The project has also introduced COVID-19 mitigation measures in the community and supported IDPs and host communities.

The UN-Habitat’s project on “Emergency Support to IDPs” has resulted in the successful implementation of support programmes in several countries, including Afghanistan, where the Afghanistan Urban Safety and Security Program (AUSSP) promotes safe, secure, and inclusive cities.